A simpler, smarter way to get show-ready.

Freeman's new eCommerce platform was built around a simple idea: exhibiting shouldn't feel complicated. The result is a streamlined experience that keeps everything in one place — from ordering to logistics to on-site support — so you can focus on creating great experiences on the show floor.

Get Started!

Head to store.freeman.com to create your account. Most users will create a new account using Okta's secure authentication. You'll only have to do this once!

Smooth start to the experience

When exhibitors log in, they land on a clean event home page that brings everything together at-a-glance: orders, reminders, deadlines, and a step-by-step event checklist.

Guided shopping experience built around your booth

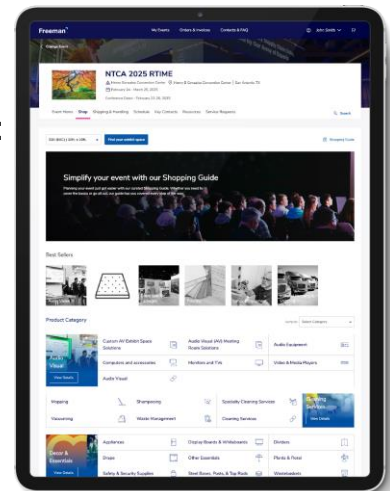

The shopping experience functions like a booth-based storefront, showing only what applies to your space.

Support onsite and on-the-go

Exhibitors can use their phone to submit and track service requests and MHAs – there's no need to spend time at the service desk.

Logistics without the stress

The platform provides real-time visibility into shipments, handling status, and invoices. For help, integrated support tools connect you to customer care right away.
